

HISTORY AND POLITICS OF GLOBALISATION AND HUMAN RIGHTS:

General Information:

The course will follow the Spring semester's calendar of the Syracuse University in Florence.

It will start on January, 22 and will end on April, 16. Class will be every Tuesday from 15,10 to 18,10 in Villa Rossa, Syracuse University in Florence, piazza Savonarola 15, Florence.

Midterm break: March, 12 (no class);

One class will exceptionally be on Monday April 8 at 6 P.M. to make up for the class of April 23 that will not take place. For the same reasons, on April 16 class will end at 7 P.M.

Students from the University of Florence and Erasmus students will have access to all SUF's facilities, included the library, and to intercultural students' activities:

Please, see the syllabus on the e-learning platform of the University of Florence (moodle) for program details and check the SUF's website (<http://suabroad.syr.edu/florence/>), or write to the teacher (lucia.re@unifi.it) for further information.

Students who will not be in Florence at the beginning of the course, are kindly asked to get in touch with the teacher as soon as possible. Erasmus and other international students who will arrive in Florence in March will be admitted to attend class and take the exam as attendant students (with supplementary take-home work that will be discussed with the teacher), only if they contact the teacher by the end of February, otherwise they will be admitted to take the exam as non-attendant students.

A good level of English (B2 level of the Common European Framework) is required.
